SUPPORT THE FRIENDS OF HOLCOMB FARM

The Friends of Holcomb Farm is a nonprofit, member-supported organization that stewards the land and legacy of this beautiful New England farm for the benefit of our community.

- We farm without chemicals or pesticides, so that we can provide fresh, healthy, local produce through our year-round CSA (Community Supported Agriculture) program.
- Our Farm Store offers one-stop shopping, with a wide range of local products, including meats, cheeses, breads, jams, and more (open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 AM to 6 PM in the summer).
- We help those in need by leveraging our farming programs to benefit food-insecure and immuno-compromised neighbors in Granby and the Greater Hartford area. We provide more than six tons of fresh produce annually to more than 1,300 people through our Fresh Access program.
- We advocate for all local farms and the local, healthy, sustainable food movement.
- We offer public education, through a wide range of programs on farming, food preservation, wildlife protection, and more.
- We steward the property upon which Holcomb Farm sits, including its beautiful, 10-mile trail system.

WELCOME TO HOLCOMB FARM

Holcomb Farm encompasses more than 300 acres of farmland, rolling hills, meadows, woodland, and clear brooks. Holcomb Farm sits between Granby Land Trust lands and the McLean Game Refuge, forming an important area of open space and protected land in Granby.

Seven generations of Holcombs farmed this land, from 1719 until 1976, before siblings Tudor and Laura Holcomb gave the farm to the public to be used for agricultural and educational purposes.
